INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this report is to identify relevant legislation in the 111th U.S. Congress pertaining to U.S.-Korea relations and the Korean-American community. Where possible, the report also tracks votes and positions of congressional members regarding such legislation. The report does not take a position on members' voting behavior nor assesses the merits of relevant legislation.

Relevant legislation can be grouped into four main categories. First is nonproliferation and defense/security issues related to North Korea. Most congressional activity concerns this area. Second is North Korean human rights and freedom of information. Third is a range of military and defense issues related to the U.S.-ROK alliance and the U.S. military presence in South Korea. Fourth, a few pieces of legislation reflect narrow and discreet items of interest to the Korean-American community.

METHODOLOGY

Relevant legislation includes all congressional actions that expressly mention "Korea." The report also attempted to identify legislation of indirect interest to U.S.-Korea relations or the Korean-American community that does not explicitly mention "Korea." This includes legislation related to the following concerns: visa waiver program; defense relations with major non-NATO allies; US forward-deployed forces; free trade agreements; non-proliferation; and human rights. Given the difficulty of inferring or imputing any legislative priorities to the Korean-American community, the relevant legislation listed below cannot claim to be an exhaustive list nor can it be used to make any assessment regarding the role or impact of Korean-Americans on the U.S. legislative process.<sup>1</sup>

FINDINGS

<sup>2</sup> A bill is the form used for most legislation, whether permanent or temporary, general or special, public or private.

<sup>3</sup> Joint resolutions may originate either in the House of Representatives or in the Senate—not, as is sometimes incorrectly assumed, jointly in both Houses. There is little practical difference between a bill and a joint resolution and the two forms are often used interchangeably.

<sup>4</sup> A matter affecting the operations of both Houses of Congress is usually initiated by a concurrent resolution. Concurrent and simple resolutions normally are not legislative in character—they are not "presented" to the President for approval—and so are used merely for expressing facts, principles, opinions, and purposes of the two Houses. A concurrent resolution is not equivalent to a bill.

legislation. Entries for each piece of legislation summarize relevance to Korean issues, identify the member who introduced the legislation and if possible any co-sponsors,<sup>6</sup> and provide a status update of the latest congressional action as of October 2009.

Following each description is a breakdown of congressional members' votes for each piece of legislation. Members who introduced legislation are marked (I) and co-sponsors (C). Members voting in favor receive (+) while those voting against receive (-). Members who did not vote are noted (NV).

<sup>5</sup> A matter concerning the rules, the operation, or the opinion of either House alone is initiated by a simple resolution.

<sup>6</sup> Co-sponsors are routinely added to legislation already introduced, so co-sponsor listing reflects most recent data as of October 2009.

S.837: North Korea Sanctions Act of 2009

This bill was introduced by Senator Sam Brownback (R-KS) with 7 co-sponsors on April 20, 2009. The bill corresponds to legislation introduced in the House as H.R. 3423 (see below). The bill directs the Secretary of State to re-designate North Korea as a state sponsor of terrorism under the Export Administration Act of 1979, the Arms Control Export Act, and the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961. Moreover, the bill expresses the sense of the Congress that the Special Envoy for Human Rights in North Korea should be present at all negotiating sessions between the governments of the United States and North Korea. The bill has not been presented for a vote and is currently pending before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Co-sponsors: Christopher S. Bond (R-MO); Jim Bunning (R-KY); Tom Coburn (R-OK); John Cornyn (R-TX); John Ensign (R-NV); Kay Bailey Hutchison (R-TX); James M. Inhofe (R-OK).

S.1407: Military Construction and Veteran's Affairs and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 2010

Senator Tim Johnson (D-SD) introduced this bill on July 7, 2009. It authorizes facility construction and maintenance funds for the Department of Defense for fiscal year 2010. For countries hosting U.S. forces, the bill requires the Departments of Defense and State to report on U.S. efforts to encourage greater "burden sharing" with host countries, including South Korea. This includes, inter alia, encouraging host countries to increase defense expenditure and provide U.S. forces with in-kind contributions for military construction projects. The bill has not been presented for a vote and is currently pending before the Senate Appropriations Committee.

S.1416 North Korea Accountability Act of 2009

This bill was introduced by Senator Sam Brownback (R-KS) and three co-sponsors on July 8, 2009. The bill seeks to direct U.S. policy toward North Korea in a number of areas, establishes requirements for various government reports to Congress concerning North Korea, and authorizes relevant appropriations in support of such policy measures. First, the Act directs the Secretary of State to re-designate North Korea as a state sponsor of terrorism. Second, it directs the Secretary of the Treasury to prohibit U.S. financial institutions from engaging in transactions with a foreign bank that is itself involved in a financial transaction with the North Korean government or any North Korean official. Third, it seeks to deepen military cooperation with Japan and South Korea, specifically through joint military training and U.S. sales of advanced military technology to Japan (Aegis radar systems; Patriot Advanced Capability-3 and Terminal High Altitude Area Defense missile defense systems, and a variant of the F-22 advanced tactical fighter). Fourth, it establishes reporting requirements regarding the implementation of, inter alia:

the North Korean Human Rights Act of 2004; any financial transactions or trade with North Korea; North Korea's nuclear weapons program; and the resettlement of North Korean refugees in the United States. Fifth, it authorizes appropriations and allows re-allocation of funds for: the completion of missile defense systems in Alaska to protect against long-range North Korean missiles; the expansion of radio broadcasting into North Korea; and relevant State Department programs in support of North Korean human rights. The bill has not been presented for a vote and is currently pending before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

This is the Senate counterpart to H.R.3081 (see below). The Act makes funds available for assisting the resettlement of North Korean refugees in the US and supporting international radio broadcasts into North Korea ($7.8 million). The Act expressly prohibits bilateral economic assistance, international security assistance, multilateral assistance, and export and investment assistance to Cuba, North Korea, Iran, and Syria. The bill has passed through the Senate Appropriations Committee and is currently on the legislative calendar awaiting floor consideration.
